Who we are

The V&A is a family of museums dedicated to the power of creativity. Our mission is to champion design and creativity in all its forms, advance cultural knowledge, and inspire makers, creators and innovators everywhere. We share a 5,000-year-old story of creativity through exhibitions, events, educational programmes, digital experiences, conservation, research, and an ever-evolving national collection of over 2.8m objects spanning every creative discipline.

The mission of the Collections Care and Access division is to manage, preserve, and provide access to the V&A's collection in both physical and digital format, working across multiple V&A sites, at South Kensington, Bethnal Green and in Stratford. The division is made up of the following departments: Conservation, Technical Services, Collections Management, Photography and Digitisation and Collections Access. The Conservation Department brings excellence and innovation to the long-term care of the V&A's collections, supporting access to the collections, the V&A's public programme, and care of collections research initiatives.

About the role

The Senior Conservator (Ceramics and Glass) demonstrates an excellent understanding and practical knowledge of ceramics and glass related materials as well as mix media objects, their degradation processes and conservation techniques. They undertake all aspects of preventive and interventive conservation in this field and are able to evaluate conservation problems, develop solutions and produce practical work and documentation to high standards. They have good experience in forward planning, prioritising, and delivering to deadlines objects for new gallery developments, exhibitions, loans, displays, and collections care. They also have a sound knowledge of scientific analysis and techniques to allow technical examination of objects with the aim of contributing to an understanding of their history and technique.

Key responsibilities are listed below:

1. Conserve objects for loans, temporary exhibitions and permanent display (focus on ceramics and glass).
  2. Advise on the care and conservation of collections (focus on ceramics and glass).
  3. Devise and undertake projects for the care of the collections.
  4. Contribute to the conservation of materials/object types outside own area of expertise, as necessary.
  5. Manage and supervise work of external conservators when using V&A facilities and/or working on V&A collections, on a project basis.
  6. Mentor less experienced conservators in the team, by guiding practical and technical issues and through knowledge sharing to enhance the overall skillset of the team.

About the role

7. Underpin care of the collection through documentation, surveys, data collection, analysis, and research (as directed by the Lead Conservator and in collaboration with the Lead Conservation Scientist).

8. Collaborate with the Preventive Conservation team developing new preventive measures, as appropriate.

9. Maintain high-level knowledge of conservation practices to ensure knowledge sharing and advise is up-to-date with current theory and practice.

10. Support the Conservation Operations team in planning, scheduling, monitoring, and delivering conservation services for exhibitions, projects and loans, ensuring high-quality standards at all times.

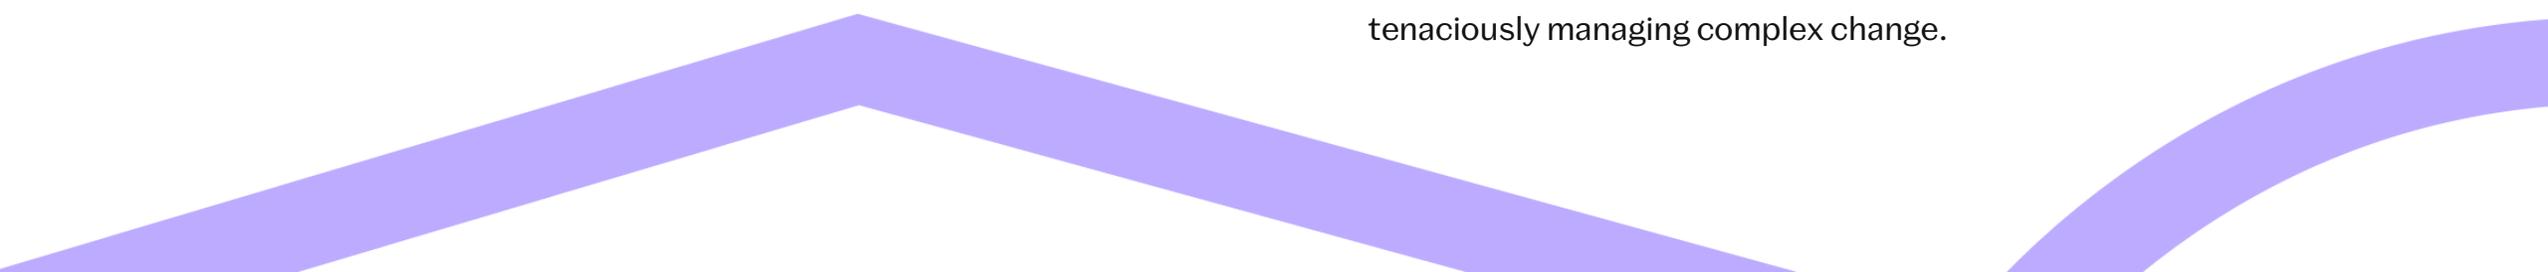

11. Support the Lead Conservator in maintaining studio upkeep and efficient use of space, equipment, materials and resources.

12. Responsible for Health and Safety, regularly review COSHH, risk assessments, method statements and working practices. Ensure Health and Safety compliance is integral to the culture of all Conservation activities.
